The dances popular in polite circles this winter are the waltz (danced in quick time), the polka and the "Heel-and-Toe Polks," with now and then a lancers thrown in as a sop to many fast-dying Cerberi, whose dancing daysare supposed to be over, but who hang on tenaciously from year to year. The "German" is simply a combination of figures, which allows each couple dancing ita turn every time, and permits them to choose other partners and give favors, but only the three round dances alfuded to above are permitted. In certain sets two very popular dances, last winter and this, have been and are the "Racket" and "Society" waltzes. They need little description, for there are few who have not seen with a shudder the wild jumping, the frantic sees sawings and apparent mad frenzy of those who participate in them A society journal in referring to their popularity says it regrets to see the transformation of the beautiful waltz, with its slow, gliding movement, into a dance worthy of only a low concert-room, and which certainly allow concert-room, and which certainly allow
